MASS MEETING HERE SUNDAY.

PROCLAMATION OF RED CROSS WEEK.

INASMUCH as our thoughts as a nation are now turned in united purpose toward the performance to the utmost of the services and duties which we assumed in the cause of justice and liberty.

INASMUCH as but a small proportion of our people can have the opportunity to serve upon the actual field of battle, but all men, women and children alike may serve and serve effectively by making it possible to care properly for those who do serve under arms at home and abroad.

AND INASMUCH as the American Red Cross is the official organized agency for voluntary effort in behalf of the armed forces of the nation and for the administration of relief.

NOW, Therefore, By virtue of my authority as President of the United States and President of the American Red Cross, I, Woodrow Wilson, do hereby proclaim the week ending June 25, 1917, as Red Cross Week, during which the people of the United States will be called upon to give generously and in a spirit of patriotic sacrifice for the support and maintenance of this work of national need.

WOODROW WILSON.
Washington, D.C., May 25, 1917.

In furtherance of the President's plan to make the week of June 18 to 25, inclusive, one of the greatest activity in Red Cross work, and as outlined in his proclamation, the Bourbon County Red Cross Committee held a meeting in the court house Wednesday afternoon, and formulated plans for carrying the work forward and raising the sum of $15,000 or more, that being Bourbon county's apportionment of the $100,000,000 to be raised for the prosecution of the National Red Cross work in the United States.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. E. M. Dickson, chairman of the committee, who in a brief talk stated the object of the meeting. The members of the committee present were Messrs. N. Ford, Brent, Sam Clay, Edward Burke, M. H. Dalley, Frank P. Kiser, James Caldwell, James Thompson, Harry Holt and John T. Collins.

The chairman appointed the following committees: Publicity—Bruce Miller, William Remington, Swift Champ, Sam Clay and Pearce Paton (each member of this committee was empowered to select ten assistants); Speaking—John T. Collins, James H. Thompson and Frank P. Kiser.

The chair announced that a big mass meeting of the citizens of the city and county would be held in the court house on next Sunday, June 17, at three o'clock, and urged that an invitation be given to every citizen of the county to be present and assist in this most important patriotic work. He explained that the county had been pledged to raise $15,000 or more for the Red Cross Fund in the National campaign, and that it was the duty of all the citizens to help. Patriotic speeches will be made by local orators, and music will be furnished by the Paris Military Band.

As a preliminary to this work the regular meeting of the Bourbon County Business Men's League will be held at the court house tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, to take up consideration of the labor and agricultural part of the National Red Cross Campaign Week. They propose to take steps for organizing labor so that farmers and others in need of able-bodied help may have no difficulty in securing same. They will appoint committees to take an accurate census of all the loafers in the city and county, and ascertain how they may most profitably employ in helping the farmers and gardeners to conserve the food supplies of the county by going to work on the farms and gardens. Committees will also be selected to take a census and survey of the resources of the county.

An office will shortly be opened on Main street, in the vicinity of Eighth street, in charge of a competent Secretary, who will be paid a salary to attend to the duties of the office. This office will at all times be open for the employment of help for farmers and others in need of labor, who

MEETING OF RETAIL MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION.

About two hundred merchants, representing the mercantile lines of different avenues of trade in Central Kentucky, met at the court house in this city, Tuesday morning, in the fourth annual session of the Central Kentucky Retail Merchants' Association. The delegates were met at the Louisville & Nashville passenger station at Tenth street, and at the Interurban station at Fifth and High, by the Reception Committees, and headed by the Paris Military Band, were escorted to the court house, where the sessions were held.

Mr. David P. Davis, of Frankfort, president of the Association, presided over the sessions, which were called promptly at ten o'clock. The address of welcome on behalf of the city and the merchants of Paris was delivered by Attorney John J. Williams, the response being voiced by Mr. Julius C. Hellborn, of Shelbyville. A telegram was read from the president of the Retail Clothiers' Association, of Lexington, inviting the Association to hold its 1918 meeting in that city, also one from Danville merchants to the same effect.

After reading of the reports of the officers and committees an address was delivered by Mr. W. G. Simpson, advertising manager of the Frankfort State Journal on "What Advertising May Mean to The Small Town Merchant." At the conclusion of the address the guests adjourned to the Hotel Windsor, where luncheon was served. A number of speeches were made, Attorney John J. Williams acting as toastmaster. Toasts were responded to by Judge Denis Dundon, D. P. Davis, Judge C. A. McMillan and Lawrence Price.

At the afternoon session a resolution was adopted offered by a committee composed of Adolph Davis, A. L. Harbison and Lee Newhoff, expressing allegiance to the President, to the United States and to the National Council of Defense. On recommendation of the committee Danville was chosen as the next place of meeting. The following officers were elected for 1918: M. F. Hansford, president; Lawrence Price, vice-president; A. W. Timney, secretary; Ben Lair, treasurer.

"BLOW, BUGLES, BLOW!"

A detachment of the bugle and drum corps from the Third Regiment, stationed at the mobilization camp at Lexington, visited Paris, Tuesday, in the interest of the campaign for the Liberty Loan bonds.

The detachment of sixteen men made the air quiver with their bugle calls, as they marched through the streets of the city. Frequent stops were made on the line of march, when the men would give their "Liberty Loan yell." Short addresses were made at different points throughout the city on the importance of an immediate and patriotic response to the Liberty Loan plan. The men were very enthusiastic over their work, and their visit stirred interest anew in the Liberty Loan project.
